Welcome

Nelson Tasman Hospice is a specialist palliative care service. The education team offers a wide range of learning opportunities for health professionals, community health workers, carers and groups. Our education focuses on supporting primary generalist providers of palliative care.

Our aim is to provide and promote evidence-based knowledge and skills to ensure that quality palliative care is accessible across the Nelson Tasman region to meet the needs of patients/clients and their families/whānau, regardless of the care setting.

Education is provided in a supportive environment and includes certified Hospice NZ programmes that have been developed to ensure nationwide consistency in palliative care education. The education activities and methods we use provide an opportunity for exploratory and collaborative learning. We encourage participation, interaction and knowledge sharing from course participants. Registration for our educational courses are online via Eventbrite.

Working in partnership with you

As a specialist palliative care centre, we welcome the opportunity to work with our partners in health to assist in building knowledge and competence in palliative care.

Palliative Care Consult Services

Hospital Liaison and Aged Residential Care

New Zealanders are living longer, and our older population is growing faster than our younger population, bringing many challenges to our hospitals, disability, and aged care sectors. Population projections show that while there are currently about 842,000 people aged 65 or over, this number will continue to increase over the next 50 years. This equates to approx. 80 people per day. The number of people in these older ages is estimated to reach 1.3 million around 2040, and 1.5 million by the 2050s (Statistics New Zealand, 2022).

A dedicated palliative care interdisciplinary team (IDT), work alongside staff at Nelson Hospital and in Aged Residential Care facilities (ARC) to provide a consultancy service to support the delivery of specialist palliative care, for all inpatients and residents.

The Education Team can support the MDT further by providing opportunities for palliative care education to build knowledge, to enhance skills and confidence of staff, family / whānau and caregivers providing care for those with a life limiting illness.

Community Engagement

Building Compassionate Communities

While compassionate communities are diverse and locally responsive, the fundamental underpinnings remain common. Compassionate communities involve the activation of community members to care for each other. Compassionate communities draw on community strengths, resources, and understanding about death and dying to provide care and support to those nearing the end of life.

Nelson Tasman Hospice is dedicated to working with a diverse range of communities. Building compassionate communities and social networks that assists patients and families/whānau to care for their loved ones in a variety of settings, in the hospice, in hospital in aged residential care (ARC) or at home.

We provide palliative care and end of life education to health professionals and community workers and are keen to engage with grassroots communities to demystify death and dying.

Our education team with the support of our volunteer and interdisciplinary teams can work with you to facilitate conversations, co design workshops or seminars, to meet your needs using a range of approaches.

Fundamentals of Palliative Care Programme

Introduction to the Ngā Tūāpapa o te Pairuri Tāngata Fundamentals of Palliative Care programme

This pack provides information to set you up before you get started, including what is covered in the programme, how to sign up, what you need to do to complete the programme and where to go for support.

About the Knowledge Hub

The Knowledge Hub is brought to you by Te Kahu Pairuri o Aotearoa Hospice New Zealand. Its aim is to provide health professionals and carers with education and resources to enable the provision of skilled and competent palliative care.

About the Fundamentals of Palliative Care Programme

The Fundamentals programme will give you an overview of how to care for people with palliative care needs in your role as a healthcare worker. Being educated about palliative care will help you improve the assessment and outcomes for people in your care, their family and whānau, as well as yourself and other healthcare workers.

There are four topics:

Essence

Essence focuses on what palliative care is, who is involved and cultural considerations. It will help you understand the essence and principles of palliative care and what you need to be prepared for when caring for people in New Zealand at the end of life.

The palliative care approach

This topic focuses on the palliative care approach and how understanding ethics, communication and spirituality can help you improve as a healthcare worker and support those receiving care.

Managing pain and long-term illness

Managing pain and long-term illness is split into two subtopics. In Pain, other symptoms and pharmacology, you will learn the basics of pharmacology, and how you can recognise pain and help people and their family and whānau through it. In Chronic illness and dementia, you will learn how to recognise chronic illness and dementia, the challenges that people diagnosed with these face and how you can support them.

Care and support at the end of life

Care and support at the end of life is about last days of life, loss and grief, with a focus on how to care for everyone and support people in care and their family and whānau.

This is how these topics are broken down across the programme:

ONLINE LEARNING

Essence

Palliative care concepts and culture of care

The online learning will provide you with the fundamental information and skills for each topic. This includes questions, case studies and reflection activities to help you apply the learning to your own practice.

Evaluation

For most topics, you will have the chance to apply what you have learnt online in one face-to-face workshop. (See below how to register)

You will take a deeper look and get the chance to collaborate with other healthcare workers.

Completing the programme

You need to complete each online learning and workshop component to complete the full programme. Start with Essence, then complete the other topics in any order.

Once you have completed a topic, you will get a certificate to recognise your achievement.

How to register for online learning

Use the Knowledge Hub. Follow this link knowledgehub.hospice.org.nz at the end of this document to register and enrol.

How to register for workshops

When you have completed the online learning, you can make a booking for a workshop with your local Hospice (Nelson Tasman Hospice) via email education@nelsonhospice.org.nz or phone (03) 546 3950

Where to go for support

Your local Hospice support person can help you register for and access the online learning and workshops and provide other support to help you get started with the Fundamentals of Palliative Care programme.

If you have technical issues using the website or you are an organisation requiring support, email education@hospice.org.nz

Grief, Loss & Bereavement

Grief and loss are an inescapable part of the human experience. The experience of living with a life limiting illness is accompanied by multiple losses for the individual, their family/whānau and carers. While a natural process, grief and bereavement can be overwhelming and can have significant psychological and physical consequences.

This workshop focuses on:

- Outlining the emotional, cognitive, physical, and behavioural aspects of the grief experience
- Explaining differing models of grief/loss
- Highlighting an empirical evidence base for risk factors for complex grief reactions
- Reviewing cognitive behavioural strategies for the management of grief (distress tolerance, behavioural hierarchy development, cognitive restructuring, ritual and meaning)
- Suicide ideation in grief.

Target audience: Health professionals

Date: Tuesday 20 June

Time: 0900 - 1230 hrs.
